READING EXERCISE: 30 MINUTES A Mad Tea Party

Read the passage carefully and then attempt all the questions on it.

In this adapted extract from Chapter 7 of 'Alice's Adventures in Wonderland' by Lewis Carroll, Alice encounters some odd characters...

There was a table set out under a tree in front of the house, and the March Hare and the Hatter were having tea at it. A Dormouse was sitting between them, fast asleep, and the other two were using it as a cushion, resting their elbows on it, and talking over its head. "Very uncomfortable for the 5 Dormouse," thought Alice. "Only, as it's asleep, I suppose it doesn't mind."

The table was a large one, but the three were all crowded together at one corner of it. "No room! No room!" they cried out when they saw Alice coming. "There's plenty of room!" said Alice indignantly, and she sat down in a large arm-chair at one end of the table.

10 "Have some wine," the March Hare said in an encouraging tone.

Alice looked all round the table, but there was nothing on it but tea. "I don't see any wine," she remarked.

"There isn't any," said the March Hare.

"Then it wasn't very civil of you to offer it," said Alice angrily.

15 "It wasn't very civil of you to sit down without being invited," said the March Hare.

"I didn't know it was your table," said Alice. "It's laid for a great many more than three."

20 "Your hair wants cutting," said the Hatter. He had been looking at Alice for some time with great curiosity, and this was his first speech.

"You should learn not to make personal remarks," Alice said with some severity. "It's very rude!"

The Hatter opened his eyes very wide on hearing this; and here the conversation dropped, and the party sat silent for a minute. The Hatter
25 was the first to break the silence. "What day of the month is it?" he said, turning to Alice: he had taken his watch out of his pocket, and was looking at it uneasily, shaking it every now and then, and holding it to his ear.

Alice considered a little, and then said, "The fourth."

30 "Two days wrong!" signed the Hatter. "I told you butter wouldn't suit the works!" he added, looking angrily at the March Hare.

"It was the best butter," the March Hare meekly replied.

"Yes, but some crumbs must have got in as well," the Hatter grumbled. "You shouldn't have put it in with the bread-knife."

35 The March Hare took the watch and looked at it gloomily; then he dipped it into his cup of tea, and looked at it again. But he could think of nothing better to say than his first remark, "It was the best butter, you know."

WRITING EXERCISE: 30 MINUTES

Begin this exercise on a new sheet of paper. Put your name and exam number at the top.

Choose ONE of the following topics and write about it as interestingly and carefully as you can.

Either

1. In the story you have just been studying, the Dormouse says nothing. Imagine he has been listening for most of the time and now decides to wake up properly and take part in the tea party.

What happens next? Be careful to set out what the characters actually say using the correct punctuation.

Or

2. Write about the best lesson you have ever been taught.

Perhaps it was in school or perhaps it was something you learned as a result of an experience with friends or family. What happened and what sort of things did you learn?
