The Jungle Book

by Rudyard Kipling

1 It was seven o'clock of a very warm evening in the Seeonee hills when Father Wolf
2 woke up from his day's rest, scratched himself, yawned, and spread out his paws one 3 after the other to get rid of the sleepy feeling in their tips. Mother Wolf lay with her big 4 gray nose dropped across her four tumbling, squealing cubs, and the moon shone into 5 the mouth of the cave where they all lived. "Augrh!" said Father Wolf. "It is time to hunt
6 again." He was going to spring down hill when a little shadow with a bushy tail crossed 7 the threshold and whined: "Good luck go with you, O Chief of the Wolves. And good 8 luck and strong white teeth go with noble children that they may never forget the 9 hungry in this world."

10 It was the jackal--Tabaqui, the Dish-licker--and the wolves of India despise Tabaqui 11 because he runs about making mischief, and telling tales, and eating rags and pieces of 12 leather from the village rubbish-heaps. But they are afraid of him too, because Tabaqui, 13 more than anyone else in the jungle, is apt to go mad, and then he forgets that he was 14 ever afraid of anyone, and runs through the forest biting everything in his way. Even the 15 tiger runs and hides when little Tabaqui goes mad, for madness is the most disgraceful
16 thing that can overtake a wild creature. We call it hydrophobia, but they call it dewanee-- 17 the madness-- and run.

18 "Enter, then, and look," said Father Wolf stiffly, "but there is no food here."

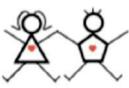

19 "For a wolf, no," said Tabaqui, "but for so mean a person as myself a dry bone is a 20 good feast. Who are we, the Gidur-log [the jackal people], to pick and choose?" He 21 scuttled to the back of the cave, where he found the bone of a buck with some meat on 22 it, and sat cracking the end merrily.

23 "All thanks for this good meal," he said, licking his lips. "How beautiful are the noble 24 children! How large are their eyes! And so young too! Indeed, indeed, I might have 25 remembered that the children of kings are men from the beginning."

26 Now, Tabaqui knew as well as anyone else that there is nothing so unlucky as to 27 compliment children to their faces. It pleased him to see Mother and Father Wolf look 28 uncomfortable.

29 Tabaqui sat still, rejoicing in the mischief that he had made, and then he said
30 spitefully:

31 "Shere Khan, the Big One, has shifted his hunting grounds. He will hunt among these 32 hills for the next moon, so he has told me."

33 Shere Khan was the tiger who lived near the Waingunga River, twenty miles away.

34 "He has no right!" Father Wolf began angrily--"By the Law of the Jungle he has no
35 right to change his quarters without due warning. He will frighten every head of game
36 within ten miles, and I--I have to kill for two, these days."

37 "His mother did not call him Lungri [the Lame One] for nothing," said Mother 38 Wolf quietly. "He has been lame in one foot from his birth. That is why he has only 39 killed cattle. Now the villagers of the Waingunga are angry with him, and he has come 40 here to make our villagers angry. They will scour the jungle for him when he is far away, 41 and we and our children must run when the grass is set alight. Indeed, we are very 42 grateful to Shere Khan!"

43 "Shall I tell him of your gratitude?" said Tabaqui.

44 "Out!" snapped Father Wolf. "Out and hunt with thy master. Thou hast done harm 45 enough for one night."

46 "I go," said Tabaqui quietly. "Ye can hear Shere Khan below in the thickets. I might 47 have saved myself the message."

48 Father Wolf listened, and below in the valley that ran down to a little river he heard 49 the dry, angry, snarly, singsong whine of a tiger who has caught nothing and does 50 not care if all the jungle knows it.

51 "The fool!" said Father Wolf. "To begin a night's work with that noise! Does he think 52 that our buck are like his fat Waingunga bullocks?"

53 "H'sh. It is neither bullock nor buck he hunts to-night," said Mother Wolf. "It is Man."

54 The whine had changed to a sort of humming purr that seemed to come from every 55 quarter of the compass. It was the noise that bewilders woodcutters and gypsies sleeping 56 in the open, and makes them run sometimes into the very mouth of the tiger.

57 "Man!" said Father Wolf, showing all his white teeth. "Faugh! Are there not enough 58 beetles and frogs in the tanks that he must eat Man, and on our ground too!"
