An Extract from The Battle of Hastings

William's army had 8,400 men and they were much fitter, they also had trained on horseback. Harold's army did not have nearly as many men and didn't have men on horseback. When Harold heard the news he and his army raced down to meet them. The battle lasted about 18 hours and the Saxons made a big mistake. They broke the line of shields and the Normans fled. The Saxons raced down after them and as soon as they got down the Norman army turned around and started to slaughter them. Then William shouted, "Fire your arrows in the sky!" So the archers drew their bows and fired. Harold looked up and an arrow fell in his right eye and killed him. William was crowned king on Christmas day 1066.
