

CREATIVE WRITING - PAPER 1

Below is the opening to a story about two siblings who have been locked in a room by their evil governess. Complete the story.

Sarah and Michael tumbled to the ground as the door slammed viciously shut in their faces. Desperately, Sarah made a lunge for the doorknob, but she was too late – the pair heard the horrifying sound of a click on the other side. For a moment, the siblings froze, unable to accept the awful truth. Then they jumped up, and clawed at the gap between door and frame like wild animals. They pounded with their fists and hollered at their wicked governess with every ounce of breath in their lungs.

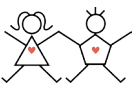

The silence was deafening. The truth sank down like lead. Mrs Spinton had locked them in the library, the only windowless room in the house. Sarah and Michael were prisoners in their own home.
